Where Referee Comes In.

It is a common occurrence for a defeated team to kick on the officials; so common, in fact, that the public as a rule plays little attention to it. After last evening's game there was not a sign of a kick from the Y. M. C. A. players or Coach R. D. Burtner of the local team. The same cannot be said of many who witnessed the game and know basketball when they see it.

Referee Hahn, manager of the Meteors and referee of the contest, gave about the smoothest exhibition ever witnessed in Salt Lake of how to hand a bunch to the opposing team and get away with it without a murmar from the average epectator. It was an eye opened to Salt Lake experts on the game.

For the 'ocals, Hirschvoge! and McConnell did the better work. This is especially true of McConnell, whose work at guard was fully equal to that of Harris. Like the Chicago man. McConnell scored three baskets, all against Huber. Joe Stanton did not play up to his old time form, much to the surprise of everyone. Huffman at center was erratic. At times he played brilliantly and again was wild. Perhaps the pace was too fast for him, which is usually the case when a big man attempts to play basketball.

Outplayed in the first half, the locals more than held their own in the second. Huffman, who had been wild both in passings and receiving the ball, settled down and did some good work. In one mixup he accidentally hurled Neill to the Hoor when the latter attempted to hold the ball against superior strength. Hirschvogel started things in this half with the first field goal, McConneil threwing the second. The third went to Huber, when big Huffman surprised all by securing two points. Two in quick succession by Dowse and Neill were followed by Stanton's first score of the game. Dowse and Neill were followed by Stanton's first score of the game. Dowse and Neill duplicated their trick again with a basket each. In this half this half this half the Micros were awarded two points.

Harris a Good Man.

Harris was easily the best actor for the Chicago team and, although playing guard, threw three baskets against Stanton. Tourtelot guarded Joe Stanton effectively, allowing him to score but once. Neill was too much for Danks, and Flotcher was substituted, but the Chicago captain landed one basket against him.

For the 'ocals, Hirschvogel and McConnell did the better work. This is espectively.

Ferron this week lost two of its most estimable and loved people in the persons of Patriach Frederick Olsen, and Mrs. Harriet Allred, wife of Eph Allred. The first named had been a prominent factor in the early settlement of Utah. He had served as bishop in Monroe, Spring City and Ferron, Utah, and was honored and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Olsen was the father-in-law of ex-Court Stenographer G. A. Iverson of the Seventh judicial district, who is now in Ann Arbor studying law. Mrs. Allred was the wife of Eph Allred of Ferron. She died from peritenitls at the age of 45 years. She possessed many sterling and praiseworthy qualities. Large crowds attended the funerals.
